ADDRESS

BY

THE REV. DR. JOSEPH KRAUSKOPF

Founder and President of

THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL

ON THE OCCASION OF ITS TWENTY-FOURTH SUCCOTH HARVEST PILGRIMAGE
OCTOBER 23, 1921

More than five million working-people unemployed.

According to Mr. Herbert Hoover, more than five millions of the laboring people of the United States are unemployed at the present time, and have been out of work for many months. At the same time many times five million acres of fertile land, that could provide food and labor for many times the number of unemployed, lie untilled, and many thousands of farms, capable of producing abundant crops, are but meagerly worked.

Due to city-congestion and farm desertion.

The cause of this overplus of unemployed laboring people in the cities and of the insufficiency of labor in the rural districts is not hard to trace. Industry and commerce, having established themselves in the cities, have, for decades of years, drawn into the factories and marts of the cities vast numbers of people from the farms, or have kept from the farm thousands of immigrants who would have gone to the country, as immigrants did years ago. The vast numbers of people settling in the cities made possible the location there of all manners of attractions, and, nothing having been done in the rural districts to counteract, especially for young people, the lure of the city, resulted in yet more people abandoning country life, and bringing about a state of affairs which to forward-looking men and women is becoming more and more serious with each year.

City population overbalances that of country.

The latest census of the United States shows the ratio of urban population to rural population in our State, and in the State of New York, two to one. The State of New Jersey has two and a half million urban population and only one-half million of rural. More than half of the population of Connecticut, which at one time was almost entirely a farming State, is now urban. The same is true of other of the New England States, of the States of the Middle West, of California. A recent issue of the Chicago Tribune illustrates quite graphically the present unbalanced state in the distribution of our population. It shows two pictures, side by side, one representing a sturdy farmer carrying on his shoulder, with great ease, a small man, the farmer representing the rural population of one hundred years ago, the little fellow on his shoulders representing the city population of that time. The other picture shows a small farmer, bent to the ground by the weight of a big man on his shoulders. Here the small farming population is made to bear the great burden of city population. Looking upon this latter picture, which represents the present time, one cannot but ask: "What, if the overburdened farmer sink exhausted, where will the burly fellow on top of him get his food?"

Country calls for laborers, city for labor.

During the past summer a great cry arose from the farmers of the far Western States for hands to help garner the crops that were ripe for the reaper—a cry that was but faintly answered. During the same time another great cry arose from the cities in the East, a cry for employment, a cry that, likewise, was meagerly answered, because of decreased demand for goods, the decrease having largely been brought about by the laboring people themselves, by their insistence upon receiving, in these deflated peace days, the wages paid them during the inflated war-times.

Darker days ahead.

Up to the present the millions of unemployed have managed to eke out an existence, either from savings laid by in the days of excessive prosperity, or from the aid afforded them by people who profited or profiteered greatly by the war. But the savings are being depleted; the profiteers' ardor to help is cooling fast. Many of the profiteers themselves have, through business stagnation, or through value-shrinkage of accumulated stock, or through extravagant living when profits were high, become greatly impoverished. The winter is drawing on fast; price of food and clothes and coal is continuing high. What will become of the five million unemployed?

European bankruptcy deprives America of trade.

There is little prospect of their number diminishing. Every country of Europe is on the verge of bankruptcy. Their money has, for the most part, practically become worthless. Large parts of their purchases in former days were from the United States. No longer able to buy from us in anything like former-day quantity, we can no longer manufacture the quantities we formerly manufactured. Not having a foreign market for the goods, we can no longer employ makers of them. Hence their idleness. Our sales being largely reduced, our income is correspondingly reduced. Lesser income necessitates lesser expenditures, especially of articles of luxury, resulting in lesser manufacture of them, and leading to the discharge of those who were hitherto engaged in the making of goods for which there is no demand.

Europe's keen competition is manufacture.

The present outlook in the labor market gives no promise of speedy improvement. The intense poverty of European lands, the necessity that is upon them to bestir themselves to the utmost in order to keep hunger from their doors, if they would regain some of their former-day prosperity, will make them strive as they have never striven before, will force them to become keener competitors of ours than they had ever before dared to be. Our steel industry, our dye and drug industries, our textile, film, machinery, crockery, electrical materials, clocks, toys and other industries, are already feeling the force of our foreign competition, are already recognizing that we have lost not only a most profitable customer abroad, but have also acquired a dangerous competitor even in our home market.

Europe in need of our agriculture.

Sooner or later we must realize that, owing to the small land areas of the European countries (except Russia), and their large populations, they cannot supply themselves at home with the necessary food. They must seek it abroad, in exchange for products of their handicrafts.

The export specialty of Europe must necessarily be manufacture.

The export specialty of the United States must be agriculture.

They must, of necessity, furnish more toilers to the factories and shops, to the mines and founderies—we, more tillers to the farms. We have land enough, and more, to employ, profitably, not only the millions of unemployed in our own country, but also to feed the hungry millions of Europe. The sooner we recognize this necessitated division in the world's labor market, the better it will be for the world. The sooner we profit by the teaching of history, that no nation can prosper that congests its cities at the cost of the rural districts, that no country is safe against want and misery, lawlessness and banditry, riot and rebellion, in which millions of fertile acres lie idle, and millions of people capable of working walk about in the overcrowded cities in search of labor and of food, the sooner we realize that it was a prophecy which Thomas Jefferson uttered when he said: "We Americans will remain virtuous as long as agriculture is our principal pursuit; when we get to be piled upon one another in large cities as in Europe, we shall become impoverished and corrupt as they,"—the sooner we realize all this, the better it will be for us.

If we fail to profit by the lessons which history and the observations of wise men teach, we furnish but another confirmation of what the philosopher Hegel taught: "Die Weltgeschichte lehrt dass sie nichts lehrt," "the history of the world teaches that it teaches nothing."

Government could promote our agriculture.

What can be done to ward off, while yet we may, this menacing danger to our common weal? The Government can do much; the people can do yet more. We are on the eve of seeing realized the long-hoped-for lessening, and possibly the ultimate abandoning, of the manufacture of armies and armaments, of battleships and fortifications, hitherto employed for purposes of war, for purposes of killing human and other life, of devastating lands, of destroying mighty fabrics of civilization.

By converting armament money to farm establishment.

May not this be the psychological moment for directing the colossal sums of money, hitherto expended on the manufacture of instruments of destruction, toward the creation of means for the maintenance of life and happiness, toward the establishment of such rural settlements as will make it possible for people to locate on properly equipped farms, on terms so easy as to make the farm ultimately the property of the one who tills it? Those who have dealt in agricultural problems know that many city people are eager to take up their life and work on farms, but cannot, because they have not the money requisite for the purchase of farms, for the stocking and seeding of them, for the maintenance of the family till the farm becomes productive. Many a family, compelled to waste away in the cities, would gladly go to the country, and stay there, if the road to the farm were but opened to it. Such roads the Government can easily open. The price of a single modern-day battleship would purchase and equip several thousands of farms, at a cost of five thousand dollars each, and would, besides lessening the city population by some tens of thousands of souls, increase our food supply annually by tens of thousands of tons, and materially decrease the price of it. The sum needed at the present time, annually, for the mere upkeep of a single battleship would enable the Government to increase that number of farms by several hundreds each year. In addition, while the end of a battleship is the junk heap, every one of these farms, or the price of it, would, after a stipulated time, revert back to the Government.

By making farm-life attractive.

Our Government can do yet more. It can make farm life fully as attractive as city life has hitherto been, and it could never have done it in the past more easily than in these days of telephone, trolley, automobile, good roads, free rural mail delivery, farm loan banks, and the like.

Our Government must take cognizance of the fact, all too long ignored, that man enters life endowed with social instincts. To live happily, he must live socially. He must settle in communities which afford chance for entertainment, for friendly intercourse, which the isolation that has hitherto largely obtained on American farms has prevented, and with grievous results.

The Government must go further still. It must help to make such entertainment possible. It must provide itinerant theatres, movies, concerts, libraries, that prove of invaluable attraction to the cities. It must provide itinerant lecturers, teachers, preachers, physicians, trained nurses. The recent war has shown what a Government can do in the way of providing entertainment for people who fight for the nation at the front, in foreign lands. Shall it not be able to do as much, and more, for people who fight at home against the yet greater enemies: Hunger, Unemployment, Corruption, Lawlessness, Banditry, Anarchy?

Well-to-do people must lead in movement "back to the soil."

And the people, too, can contribute mightily toward accelerating the movement from the city "back to the soil." It will never succeed if those that are to be encouraged by the Government to take up farm work, are to be composed mostly of the poorer classes. If the poor are to go there, and stay there, they must have the example of the well-to-do.

Farmers at one time the only true aristocrats.

Life on the farm must again be made respectable, even fashionable. We seem to have forgotten that the land-owners and land-tillers at one time constituted the only true aristocracy. In ancient Israel, farming and shepherding were the occupations of kings and prophets, of bards and lawgivers. Cincinnatus, one of the heroes of ancient Rome, a model of old Roman virtue, came off the farm when, in the hour of need, his country required his services, in which he rose to Chief Commander, and returned to the plow when his brilliant victories were won. Diocletian, the Roman Emperor, came off the farm, and returned to it after he voluntarily abdicated his sovereignty. Presidents Washington, Adams, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, Garfield, were born on farms. Washington declared that he was prouder of the title "Farmer" than of the title "President," that the more he saw of the pursuits of men, the more convinced was he that "agriculture is the most healthful, the most useful, the most noble employment of man." Count Leo Tolstoi, the great Russian philosopher and reformer, said to me, when I had the honor of being guest on his farm: "More than half my life I spent in seeking peace and contentment. I sought them in society life, in military life, in literary life, in sport and dissipation, but I failed to find them in any of these. I found them, at last, in my work on my farm."

Nearly all the founders of our country came from the farm when they left the old world, and they continued as farmers in the new. Without their sturdiness, their strength of character, their loftiness of purpose, their familiarity with hardships—all products of the farm and inheritances from a race of farmers—and without the aid of the later settlers who, likewise, came off the soil when they left the old world, and settled on farms after their arrival in the new, there would never have been built up that great nation of ours, which today is the wonder of the world, and could easily be its salvation.

Return to soil could be accelerated by support of National Farm School

A return to the soil might be stimulated by forward-looking people in yet another way: by heartily and liberally supporting a school such as this, that has for its object the training, in practical and scientific agriculture, of lads from all parts of the country, irrespective of creed, entirely free of all cost to them for tuition and keep.

The twenty-four years of the School's existence have given the quietus to many objections that had been raised when the School was first started, to the many fears that were entertained that especially the Jew, having been segregated from his original pursuit of agriculture, having been forced, by cruel restrictive laws, to become a city dweller, in almost every European land, would never again return to tilling the soil, after an absence from it for many centuries. The splendid success in agriculture by many of our graduates, the faithful continuance in it by a large percentage of them, despite the many strong allurements cityward, the cultivation today, according to the 1920 Report of the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid Society, by more than ten thousand Jewish immigrant families, comprising fifty thousand souls, of some one million acres of our land, and the remarkable success attained by many of them, is the best proof that, where good farming opportunities exist, the Jew is, in certain sections, more ready to avail himself of them than are many of the other people.

National Farm School an INVESTMENT, not a CHARITY.

That the number of our students is not larger than the 126 who are at the present time enrolled, is no indication that a larger number of students would not avail themselves of the agricultural training afforded at this School, if a larger number of people were giving it financial support. It is surprising how easily money can be gotten for city institutions, for entertainment of city people, for movements that tend to congest yet more the crowded cities, and how hard it is to win support for a movement such as ours, that is practically and successfully engaged in transplanting many of the submerged of the filth-reeking and crime-breeding Ghettoes and slums to the broad and sunlit and food and health-yielding acres! It is surprising how few people realize that money expended on a school like this is an investment and not a charity, an investment yielding character, manhood, profitable and healthful labor, peace and contentment, above all things, food, without which the nation cannot exist. The contribution to this School of but a fraction of a dollar a year, on the part of but a moderate number of adults in moderate circumstances, would enable it to house and keep annually many thousands of students, and train them not only in practical and scientific agriculture, but also in the mechanical arts, in the art of the blacksmith, the carpenter, the plumber, the wagon-builder, the harness-maker, the electrician, the bricklayer, the mason, a knowledge of which crafts is greatly needed at the present time in our rural districts. And I firmly believe that many times that fraction of a dollar would be annually saved in taxes, required at present for the maintenance, in penal or charity institutions, of the morally and mentally and physically diseased hailing from the corrupt and over-crowded slums and Ghettoes.

Its achievements.

Much as we have needed this aid from the very first, at no time have we deserved it more than at present. Last June we entered upon the twenty-fifth year of our existence. When, God willing, we shall meet again on these grounds for our Tree Consecration Exercises, on the first Sunday of next June, we shall have rounded out one quarter of a century of devoted and laborious work in the cause for which the School was founded. It has turned out hundreds of graduates. Starting with but the belief that we were right, and with the will to succeed, we have met not only all our financial obligations throughout all the twenty-four years, but have also built up a plant here conservatively estimated to be worth half a million dollars. That plant belongs to the people of the United States. Our only share in it is the consciousness of having entered upon a very difficult undertaking, of having encountered many trials and disheartenments, of having weathered every storm, of having arrived at our twenty-fifth year backed by approval from many of the foremost men of our country, among them Presidents of the United States, Members of Cabinets, Ambassadors, Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Presidents of Universities, Judges, Professors, Presidents of Railroads, Heads of Religious Bodies, Men of Affairs, and the like, words of highest commendation given or written by them after personal visits to our School, and after thorough inspection of our work, and of the work of many of our graduates.

Has merited wide recognition.

Surely an institution such as this that, despite the many difficulties that have impeded its course, has won for itself the praises of many of the greatest people of the land, has merited more generous support than it has hitherto received, has earned a better recognition of the difficult work in which it is engaged in these anti-farming days. A striking illustration of such lack of comprehension of our difficult task was given during the past year.

Is capable of doing great work in Far West.

In my Annual Message, a year ago, I spoke of the tour of inspection of agricultural conditions in California, which I was privileged to make as guest of Mr. E. O. McCormick, Vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and under his personal direction. I spoke of the marvelous agricultural opportunities that exist in California, and of its woful lack of farmers. I pointed out the wonderful chance for settling there a mother colony, to be composed of graduates of The National Farm School, and of other similar schools, and to include a careful selection of the congested immigrants of our Eastern cities, these colonists, in time, to become heads of later colonies to be started in the same manner. I elaborated a plan of procedure, and, judging from the letters that have reached me, the plan met with hearty approval far and wide.

But, during the year that has passed, nothing has been done to turn opportunity into reality. The cities continue to be crowded with unemployed people. Millions of rich acres in the Golden West continue to lie idle. Immigrants continue to crowd yet more the overcrowded cities. The landless people of the East continue to keep away from the peopleless lands of the West, because there is no organized movement to move them there.

If Far West would but co-operate.

Some of the people of the Far West have suggested that our institution here undertake, in addition to our other work, the proposed Far-Western Colonization movement. They do not seem to realize that we, in the East, have our hands quite full with training annually, in practical and scientific farming, youths from all parts of the United States, entirely free of cost to them. Is it not about time for such great and rich cities as San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, to bestir themselves in bringing trained, and carefully selected, tillers of the soil into their sparsely settled States, of whom they say they have the greatest need? Their rich soil fairly clamors for hands to till it, and yet they do little or nothing to answer that clamor. There are hundreds of families ready to settle on equipped Far Western farms, if the farms were but ready to receive them, if means were but provided to transport them, and settle them, and enable them to pay back, within a reasonable time, whatever money has been put into their farms.

As we in the East finance the movement of preparing young men for efficient farming, so should they, in the West, finance not only the bringing there of these trained workers but also the carefully selected whom they might train. They would have little or nothing to risk by the undertaking. If unsuccessful, the land purchased, and the farmhouses built and equipped, would be theirs. If successful, the settlements would be of great benefit not only to the settlers, but also to the agricultural value of their respective States, and to the food supply of the nation, and lessen the menace of our overcrowded cities.

Our present urgent needs.

Much as has been done at this School, more remains to be done. We are still obliged to deny admission to many a deserving lad because we have not the means to educate, and to board and lodge and clothe, free of cost to all of them, a larger number than are now cared for by us. We need additional dormitories. Our scattered class-rooms are wofully deficient, and cry aloud for a school building. Our Dairy is still a makeshift, notwithstanding the sum of ten thousand dollars contributed, several years ago, by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus, of New York, toward the erection of a building fully equipped with all the requirements of a modern, sanitary, scientific Dairy. A Mechanics' Hall for the training of students in the necessary craftmanships—a most needed building—is still unprovided for.

Give While You Live.

I am told that some of you have remembered the Farm School in your wills, have provided for the erection, on these grounds, of some building to your memory, or to the memory of some one dear to you. If such is your intention, why not erect the building while you are still living, while you can personally oversee the uses to which it is put, and delight your heart, and perhaps lengthen your years, by watching the benefits it confers upon those for whom it is built?

May our needs be supplied on 25th Anniversary.

Will not some one make up a Twenty-fifth Anniversary present of the new Dairy, toward which we already have the sum of $10,000? Will not some other man or woman erect for us, as a Twenty-fifth Anniversary present, the needed School Building? Will not yet another, appreciative of the work that here has been done, and of the yet greater work that here might be done, erect for us the Mechanics' Hall? Will not a number of others help us to secure several thousand additional members, needed for the education and maintenance of scores of additional students, and for the upkeep of the additional buildings, should they be donated to us?

Might not Sunday, June 4, 1922, become known in the history of our Institution as the Great Dedication Day, the day on which, besides the New Greenhouse, and the new Assembly Hall, that have already been promised to us, there will also be dedicated:

The New Dormitory
The New School Building
The New Mechanics' Hall
The New Dairy.

Might not announcement be made on that day that the number of our annual financial supporters has greatly increased?

This is our fervent prayer. May God, Who has granted fulfillment to many of our former prayers, grant fulfillment also to this.

TWENTIETH ANNUAL GRADUATION EXERCISES

FEBRUARY 22, 1921.

Twenty-two lads were awarded diplomas, and three were awarded post-graduate certificates, at the Twentieth Annual Graduation Exercises of The National Farm School held on Washington's Birthday, February 22, 1921.

World War veterans were among the graduates. Abraham Krotoshinsky, President of the Graduating Class, according to official war .records, is credited with having saved the "Lost Battalion" in the Argonne Forest, while a member of Company K, 307th Infantry, 77th Division.

The exercises were held in the Assembly Room of Segal Hall, on the grounds of the School, at Farm School, Bucks County, Pa. Addresses were made by State Senator Augustus F. Daix, Jr.; Mr. Richard Spillane, Financial Editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger; Dr. George Wheeler, Acting Superintendent of the Public Schools of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, Founder and President of the Farm School.

The diplomas were presented by Professor Bernhard Ostrolenk, director of the institution.

The following are the members of the Graduating Class, all of whom received the diploma of the School, for having completed the full three years' course in practical and scientific agriculture:

Arthur Apple
Samuel Cooper
Harry Morris Corenzwit
Dominick De Vito
Morris Greenwald
Isador Gross
Edgar Hecsh
David John Hill
Joseph Iger
Harry Krauss
Morris Krauss
Abraham Krotoshinsky
Samuel Samuels
Irving Silverman
Morris Skaist
Harry Statman
Sidney Stone
Gabriel Swerdlow
Gustave Taube
Hirsch Touff
Philip Trupin
Abraham Zinn

Post-graduate certificates were awarded to Morris Daniels and Walter J. Groman, for one additional year in Farm Management; and to Robert Livingston, for one additional year in Greenhouse Management.

To Samuel Samuels and Harry Morris Corenzwit were awarded the post-graduate courses at the School as managers of the Schoenfeld Farm No. 1 and the Hellman Farm, respectively, for the ensuing year.

TREE CONSECRATION EXERCISES

JUNE 5, 1921.

The custom that has been established at The National Farm School of planting trees on the School grounds each year, and inscribing and consecrating them, amidst impressive ceremonies, in memory of the departed and in honor of the living, is constantly attracting the attention of a larger number of people, who realize that there is probably no more lasting way, nor one fraught with a deeper spiritual and poetic sentiment, in which to honor the living and the dead, and that shall, at the same time, render a more distinct service to yet unborn generations.

The Annual Tree Consecration Exercises of The National Farm School, held on the School grounds this year, on Sunday, June 5, 1921, was, therefore, made the occasion for a large gathering of friends of the School and friends of the trees, from far and wide. An ideal June day and an attractive program combined to make the event one long to be remembered in the history of the School.

The Exercises were held in the beautiful grove of trees adjacent to the School buildings, and were opened with an invocation by the Rev. Louis Bernstein, Rabbi of Har Sinai Congregation, Baltimore, Md. Philip Sterling, Esq., of the Pennsylvania State House of Representatives, then introduced Edward E. Beidleman, Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania, as the Presiding Officer of the day. Other speakers of the occasion were Eugene S. Benjamin, President of the Board of Trustees of the Baron de Hirsch Fund; Joseph S. Illick, Chief of the Office of Research of the Department of Forestry of Pennsylvania, and Miss Violet Oakley, distinguished artist.

In the course of a very interesting address, Lieutenant-Governor Beidleman complimented the purpose of the School, stating that Pennsylvania may well be proud to have within its boundaries an institution that is doing so splendid a work for the country at large.

Mr. Beidleman then presented Mr. Illick, who examined the splendid oak tree, under whose spreading branches the speakers' platform had been erected, and told the audience that the tree is more than 350 years of age, and still young and thriving. His talk was a plea to love the trees, both from the sentimental and economic points of view.

To Miss Oakley was given the honor of delivering the formal address of Tree Consecration, and she had her subject well in hand. Her address was a beautifully portrayed word picture—skillfully drawn and tinted by the hand of the true artist, expressing sound principles in relation to the planting and preservation of trees, in words fraught with the magic of poetry. Miss Oakley pointed out the value of trees, as objects of beauty and harmony in scenic decoration, and made a plea for the spreading and enlarging of the plan of planting trees, as festive trees, and as memorial trees.

Mr. Benjamin's address was a tribute to the late Jacob H. Schiff, in whose memory a tree had been planted on the grounds of the School.

Dr. Krauskopf then, in a few brief words, told of the work which the School is doing and spoke of the custom of planting Memorial and Festive Trees at the School, by which the names and memories of those for whom trees are planted will forever be kept green, long after memorials of brick and mortar shall have fallen into decay. He then read the list of names of those friends of the School for whom trees had been planted and inscribed, including also the names of a number of soldiers who died in the World War, and for whom trees had been planted in the "Patriots' Grove" of the School—a grove set aside on the School grounds for the planting of trees in honor of our fallen heroes, as well as for those who served their country, and returned in safety to their homes. (The list of names is published in full on pages 22 to 25 of this book.) After the reading of names for whom Memorial Trees had been planted, Rabbi Bernstein said the Kaddish, and the ceremonies were concluded with the benediction pronounced by Dr. Krauskopf.

The manuscript of the address of Miss Oakley which was hand-printed in illuminated type by Miss Oakley, herself, and which she turned over to Dr. Krauskopf for the benefit of the School, netted the School $2225; Lieutenant-Governor Beidleman acting as auctioneer.

Part One of the Afternoon Program, was an agricultural parade of the machinery, implements and live stock of the School, which created a most impressive spectacle and was received with great enthusiasm and interest by the visitors. The outstanding features of the parade were:

UNIT I.—Exhibiting Horticultural Products and Machinery.
UNIT II.—Exhibiting Arboricultural Machinery—Sprayer throws fine spray of chemicals on trees and shrubs, thereby destroying injurious insects.
UNIT III.—Exhibiting Machinery Used in Preparing Soil:
(a) Plow;
(b) Disc Harrow;
(c) Roller drawn by Tractor;
(d) Grain-drill and Corn-planter, with fertilizer attachment;
(e) Cultivator used in destroying weeds and for conserving moisture;
(f) Grass-cutting Machine;
(g) Tedder, stirs up cut grass to facilitate its drying;
(h) Horse-rakes, gather mowed grass into windrows;
(i) Hay Wagon, with hay-loader attached;
(j) Reaper and Binder used in harvesting grain;
(k) Threshing Machine, run by tractor;
(l) Machine used for baling straw.
UNIT IV.—Exhibiting Different Activities of Poultry Department.
UNIT V.—Exhibiting Live-stock and Dairy Products.
UNIT VI.—Exhibiting Lumbering Activities.
UNIT VII.—Exhibiting Truck Laden With Products for Market.

Part Two of the Afternoon Program consisted of a bucolic dance feature, a revival of an ancient pastoral custom. This feature was staged on the lawn fronting Segal Hall, by the girls of the Graphic Sketch Club, of Philadelphia, under the auspices of the Noyes School of Rhythmic Expression, Miss Alice Kraft, Teacher. The dancers represented wood nymphs coming out of the forest, and disporting themselves in the open, the several dances being designated:

1. The Mists—Drifting and Settling Over the Fields, Refreshing the Sleeping Flowers.
2. The Water Lily.
3. Meadow Play.
4. Dance of the Dryads.
5. The Ghosts of Scarecrows.
6. Horses of the Sun.
7. The Message of the Winds.

The dances were charmingly rendered in a setting of rare natural beauty, and gave an exquisite finishing touch to a program intensely interesting and impressive throughout.

TWENT-FOURTH ANNUAL SUCCOTH HARVEST PILGRIMAGE

OCTOBER 23, 1921.

Dr. Jos. Krauskopf, President and Founder of The National Farm School, made an earnest appeal at the Twenty-fourth Annual Succoth Harvest Pilgrimage, held on the grounds of the School on Sunday, October 23, 1921, for the remaining funds necessary for the erection of an adequate dairy building for the School, toward which $10,000 has already been contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus, of New York. He expressed the hope that June 4, 1922, on which day the School will celebrate the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of its founding, would go down in the history of the institution as the "Great Dedication Day," when the new greenhouse and new assembly hall, for which funds have recently been donated, would be dedicated, and by which time he hoped the new dormitory, new school building, mechanics' hall and dairy, all urgently needed, might also be a reality.

The day was one of rare autumnal beauty, and a great concourse of friends of the School from Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and other neighboring cities and towns, availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting the School, to participate in the interesting exercises, and for spending a delightful day in the country.

The exercises were opened in Segal Hall, where the speakers' platform was banked with the fleecy tops of asparagus plants inlaid with potatoes, pumpkins, cabbages, turnips, peppers, green and red, while tall cornstalks loomed high on both sides to represent the Succah.

Rev. Ira E. Sanders, of Allentown, delivered the opening prayer and was followed by the speakers of the occasion, who were: Hampton L. Carson, Philadelphia, President of the American Bar Association, Former Attorney-General of Pennsylvania, Former President Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Vice-President American Philosophical Society, Chancellor of the Law Association of Philadelphia, Author and Lecturer; Herbert H.

Lehman, New York, active in Jewish and Non-Jewish Philanthropies; Associate of General Goethals during the war; for brilliant service was awarded by War Department, Distinguished Service Medal, and with an Honorary Degree by Williams College; Jos. Krauskopf, President and Founder of The National Farm School, and Bernhard Ostrolenk, Director of the School.

Mr. John Spargo, of Old Bennington, Vt., was to have been one of the speakers, but at the last moment was prevented from attending, because of illness.

Adolph Eichholz, Esq., member of the Board of the Farm School, introduced Mr. Hampton L. Carson, as the Presiding Officer of the day, who in a most charming and delightful manner, and by way of introduction, told a few anecdotes to illustrate what he doesn't know about farming, and then launched on his theme, which was the infinity of agriculture. He told of the hardships and narrowness of the farmer's life in the early days before the advent of the telephone, the electric light and the automobile, and pictured him with his eyes riveted on the furrow. He then told of the wonders of nature that the modern agriculturist seeks to explore. He compared the farm life of twenty or thirty years ago with that of today. Although farm life still lacks some of the attractions and allurements of city life, he said, modern mechanical improvements and inventions have made it far different from the life of the past generation of farmers.

Dr. Krauskopf, President of the Farm School, then read his Annual Message, printed in full on pages 5 to 16 of this book.

Colonel Lehman, told of the urgent need for developing the farm lands of the West. He recited statistics of foreign trade to show that the wastefulness of the war has so reduced the demand for manufactures that the only remedy for the unemployment here in the East is a big back-to-the-farm movement.

Professor Ostrolenk presented his report of the work and achievements of the School during the past year, published in full on pages 34 to 39 of this book.

Officers and members of the Board were elected for the ensuing year, and prizes donated by friends of the School were distributed to the students for meritorious work.

The afternoon program consisted of a Harvest Exhibit by the students of the School in the field near the Main Building, and aroused intense interest on the part of the visitors.

The various exhibits given were as follows:

1. Harvesting hay, showing hay tedder at work, the hay being then raked by a side-delivery rake, and loaded by a hay loader, the power being on a wagon hitched to a tractor.
2. Harvesting grain, the grain is threshed by a threshing machine, operated by a tractor. The straw is baled by a baler, the grain is further cleaned by a fanning mill.
3. Harvesting honey from honey-comb by extracting it through centrifugal machine.
4. Sawing lumber with tractor and circular saw.
5. Filling silo with silage cutter, blower and tractor.
6. Breeding corn exhibit, showing improvement made in type of field corn by selection at The National Farm School.
7. Fruit and vegetable exhibit in Segal Hall.
8. Milking and feeding of King Walker Marengo Lass, a high producing tuberculine-tested, pure-bred Holstein Friesian cow, one of the herd of The National Farm School. She has an official record of 37 quarts of milk per day, and produced 13,752 lbs. (6876 qts.) of milk in one year.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

BERNHARD OSTROLENK.

In giving an account of the trusteeship of the faculty of the responsibilities invested in us, I can say nothing more pointedly than that during the past year The National Farm School has steadfastly adhered to its policy of giving city boys a training in practical and theoretical agriculture. To this end we have attempted to refine our procedure in classes, field and laboratory. We have been increasingly selective in the admission of students, and have used every precaution to discover possible weaknesses in the candidates. Applicants from Philadelphia, New York and vicinity were called in for personal interview. In each case we carefully went over the history of the applicant, and individually discussed with each one the possible future in agriculture. We find that such personal discussion quite often leads the applicant to withdraw his application. The body of students reporting here last spring to my mind, were a well-selected group, 83 per cent. of whom are today still in the School continuing their agricultural work.

Within the School we have continued to lay stress upon the educational feature of our work. The classroom is becoming increasingly standardized. We have maintained a thirty week half-day class instruction and an eighteen week course largely devoted to field instruction, in which there was, however, a one-hour period every day of classroom instruction.

We have been able to widen the curriculum because of the increased number of teachers, thus giving students an opportunity to make group elections. We now have a splendid opportunity not only to turn out well-trained men in dairying, farm management, and care of stock, but also in floriculture, pomology and poultry. While we attempt to co-ordinate the instruction in the classroom with the seasonal instruction in the field, we find that, to a very large extent, such co-ordination must be disregarded for practical reasons. We attempted to work out a scheme of weekly seasonal classroom instruction, but we do not feel that we have satisfactorily solved the problem. Nevertheless, we are satisfied with the classification of courses along the seasonal line which we have already made.

We have been led to believe that students who make excellent records in the instruction given them in the fields, often may not make so good a showing in the classroom. Our experience, however, teaches us that, to a very large degree, students competent in the field, are also the ones who are competent in the classrooms, and that the students whom we cannot interest in anyone of our agricultural departments, are the students whose enthusiasm is lax in the classroom. We have been able to make excellent students in class and fields of boys who were failures in the city schools and we attribute this change more to the visible utility the student is able to observe in the work here than to difference in subject. The introduction of courses in civics, history, English, and literature has had a noticeable effect upon the standards of the School, and I cannot speak too highly of this work as an essential part of our training in good citizenship.

In the field instruction we rotated all of our first year students every month and all of our second year students every two months through our departments. In this wise we gave all of our students an opportunity to learn about the entire farm.

During the Senior year they were given an opportunity to elect to stay in anyone department for a year or any portion thereof. Our aim here was to develop initiative by giving these Seniors charge of a certain portion of the work. Here we were handicapped only by the limitations of the departments. For instance, neither our greenhouse nor our poultry department is large enough to accommodate the number of Seniors who wished to specialize in these particular branches. Similarly, we are somewhat handicapped in the instruction that we give to Seniors in the care of cattle, by the limited facilities of our barns. The expansion of all these departments is the paramount problem for the further refinement of our work.

During the past year, the Federal Board for Vocational Training of Discharged Soldiers has placed here twenty-four students who wish to remake their lives by taking up agriculture. These young men have been disabled in one form or another during the war and cannot follow their former vocation. We have put at the disposal of these men the best facilities of the School and the greatest enthusiasm of our teachers.

We have the usual problems of the boarding school, of taking care of our students when not in class or in the field. Four evenings a week are devoted to supervised study when every student must be either in his room or in the library, and an instructor in charge regularly makes the rounds and assists students in their work. I regard this supervised study period as probably one of the most important features of the day's work. The fact, however, that the students are divided into three dormitories and that there are three floors to each dormitory makes such supervision extremely difficult. Much assistance is being given the faculty by the aid of student committees who take charge of portions of dormitories and rigidly enforce classroom etiquette during this period. A new Science Hall, providing a study auditorium for students would greatly simplify the problem.

We have found it essential, in addition to the supervised study, to direct the recreation of our students. To this end our faculty have, to a much larger degree than formerly, taken part in virtually all the activities of the students, and in many cases assumed direction with student committees of social and athletic affairs. Increased participation and assistance in this work has had much to do with the splendid morale which has been maintained at the School throughout the entire year.

We have continued to develop the physical plant of the School. Improvements have been made particularly to give better facilities for the housing of our instructors. The farmhouse on the Home Farm has been remodeled to make homes for two of our instructors; each home being fully equipped with all modern conveniences such as electric lights, bathroom facilities, steam heat, etc. Similarly, the house on the Schoenfeld Farm No. 3 has been improved by the installation of steam heat and hot and cold water and a bathroom. I regard these improvements in line with a sound policy of the School to encourage competent instructors to make their homes here.

Considerable road improvement was undertaken during the year and much good work along this line has been accomplished. The unsightly thicket separating the Home Farm from Schoenfeld Farm No. 3 was cleared up. Considerable work was done to maintain the splendid condition of our buildings through paint and repair.

We continued the development of all of the herds on our farms, and splendid results in increased production have already rewarded our efforts. Our attempts to apply the principles of breeding and selection to corn have given us exceptionally good results. The National Farm School ear of corn has become longer, is of greater circumference, increased depth of kernel, larger protein contents and earlier maturity. This work we hope to continue even more intensively during the coming year. We have been crowned with unusual success in our efforts to introduce alfalfa to our soil. We were told the difficulties usually encountered in the growing of alfalfa in this region is winter killing. This we have overcome by using northern grown varieties. By thoroughly preparing our soil, deep plowing, applying a liberal amount of phosphorous and lime, careful inocculation, and good judgment in using the seeding kind, we seem to have overcome many of the difficulties of growing alfalfa, as can be testified by viewing the hundred acres of alfalfa now growing on our farms. The value of this crop can be appreciated when it is considered that the yield is greater than timothy hay, in our case often twice and three times as great, and that the protein contents are between three and five times that of timothy hay.

Gratifying, indeed, are the splendid reports we are increasingly receiving from our graduates. In a time of industrial depression we seem to have no difficulty in placing our graduates on farm jobs at good wages. In fact, we have a great many openings for our graduates, with no graduates to fill them. Our Alumni are increasingly finding themselves on their own farms. In spite of the large numbers of graduates of our School that are very recent, we have slightly increased the percentage of those who are today successfully operating their own farms. We have now 11.2 per cent. of our graduates on farms of their own, against 10 per cent. a year ago. Many graduates have purchased farms within the last year.

While we do not claim to be a preparatory school, it is noteworthy, however, that today graduates of The National Farm School can be found pursuing advanced studies in agriculture in Pennsylvania State College, Ohio State College, Michigan State College, Minnesota Agricultural College and the Massachusetts Agricultural College. Graduates of the The National Farm School, in very large numbers, are beginning to give splendid accounts of themselves as scientists, teachers, workers in the experiment stations, and as leaders in farm communities.

I cannot close this report without calling special attention to the many needs of the School that are most imperative. A dairy barn to house our cattle so that adequate ventilation is provided and tuberculosis among them is suppressed, is a much needed improvement. Not only is it necessary from the standpoint of centralizing our dairy work, but also as stated before, to equip ourselves for better dairy instruction. Our facilities at the present time for judging cattle, making special feed tests or taking a class in butter making or milk testing, are most inadequate. It is the great interest of our boys and the enthusiasm of the teachers that has enabled us at all to carry on the work as well as we have.

Two departments, demanding additional development, are our greenhouses and our poultry department. In neither one of these do we have to this day, sufficient equipment to take care of the ever-increasing number of students begging us for this type of instruction.

We find that to do proper teaching, there must be certain minimum physical facilities to maintain the discipline, decorum and industry in the classroom. The classroom should be well ventilated, well lighted and the students properly seated. None of these conditions exist satisfactorily today in any of our classrooms. A Science Hall, properly equipped with a sufficient number of classrooms and a sufficient number of laboratories and study auditorium seems to me a fundamental need of the School.

I feel that we are somewhat remiss in the instruction of manual training and mechanics that is increasingly becoming a primary feature of a modern farmer's equipment. This instruction at the present time is more or less haphazard. A mechanical and manual training department with a proper building to house classrooms equipped with carpenters' benches and tools, lays and forgers and classrooms for the demonstration of farm tools must be one of our early considerations.

We are sorely in need of an additional dormitory to house the large number of additional students asking us for admission. While it may seem strange that we are asking for increased facilities for our present students and at the same time asking for increased facilities for more students, I wish to point out that much of the increased facilities as well as the present facilities should be taken advantage of by a greater number of students. It is a matter of efficiently rounding out our plant that justifies these increases.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' AUXILIARY BOARD

MRS. BERNARD KOHN, Chairman.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Board reports at the end of another year, their continued and vital interest in the Farm School. They have visited regularly and faithfully, and their reports have been most gratifying. Owing to the change in industrial conditions, servants have been more plentiful and efficient, with the results that the buildings have been well cared for, and kept unusually clean.

In a social way, the students say this has been the best season ever. The Ladies' Board, kindly assisted by the Gentlemen's Board, have made it possible to augment the social life of the School, by monthly dances during the winter season, and picnics during the summer. Girls from the Rebecca Gratz Home and the Neighborhood Centre, under proper chaperonage, to the number of about thirty, were sent out, and added greatly to the pleasures of these affairs. We expect to continue the dances, as the boys looked forward to them from one time to the next, and the whole tone and morale of the boys seemed to be uplifted.

This season, owing to the unexpected heat in the early spring, followed by frost, and then by a drought, has been a very hard one on fruits and vegetables. Notwithstanding, Miss Churchman, the matron, reports a gain in some quarters. There are 813 jars of tomatoes, compared with last year's record of 500. Up to date, 1594 half-gallon jars of fruits and vegetables were canned for winter use, and 325 glasses of jelly. Experiments were also conducted on the dehydration of apples, and from the results obtained, we feel that for another year the winter's need of apples and peaches can be dried in that manner.

The Ladies' Board again, and still strongly urges as in the past, separate housing for the faculty and teaching staff of the Farm School, as a solution to many of the household problems.

The Sewing Circle, with Mrs. Schoneman and Mrs. Goldsmith in charge, did its usual good work toward the stocking of the linen room. In this connection we feel that a special acknowledgment of appreciation and thanks should be made to the various Sisterhoods, Councils of Jewish Women and Ladies' Aid Societies throughout the country, who in response to Dr. Krauskopf's appeal, have so generously and liberally contributed to the Farm School needs, and have made so many desired wants a reality, contributing not only the materials, but also setting aside a number of days during the season to sewing these materials into useful articles for our linen room and wearing apparel for our boys; towels, sheets, pillow cases, bed spreads, table cloths, napkins, waiters' aprons, pajamas, night shirts, etc. A list of the organizations who assisted in this work is appended and we trust that we may count upon them to continue this good work, in behalf of the School.

Noted Scientists APPROVE OF Gas Lighting

Scientific experiments by noted investigators prove that gas lighting improves the air for breathing purposes by helping ventilation, destroying germs and adding necessary moisture.

Scientists also know that modern gas light is best for the eyes, because it is so soft, mellow, free from glare and harmful color rays.

The Bureau of Standards, at Washington, refers in detail to the economy and quality of gas mantle light in a report entitled "Measurements for the Household."

See the display of modern gas lights at any of our Philadelphia Showrooms.

FORMOLID

(Antiseptic Solution)

IS NOT merely a mouth-wash, though a most agreeable and efficient preparation for such use. It is excellent for use internally or anywhere about the body where a mild antiseptic is desired. It is just the thing to use in connection with cuts, abrasions of the skin, etc., where there is a possibility of infection.

The user of FORMOLID finds abundant occasions.

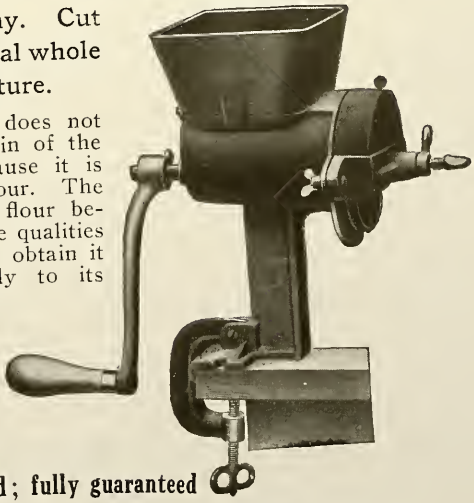
GRIND WHOLE WHEAT

For Health and Economy. Cut down in food bills. Eat real whole cereals, not a millers' mixture.



Manufactured graham flour does not usually contain the outer skin of the kernel known as bran, because it is lost in converting it into flour. The bran is an essential to the flour because it contains the digestive qualities of the grain. To be able to obtain it freshly ground adds greatly to its nutrition and reduces its cost 50 per cent. This can be done on the QUAKER CITY MILL. You can grind (fine or coarse) wheat, corn, rye, peanut butter, nuts, vegetables, cocoa, spices, etc.

Price, $6.00, C. O. D. if desired; fully guaranteed says:

"Electricity will sweep and dust,
wash and dry dishes,
wash and iron,
cook and sew."

THE USE of electric labor-savers in the home takes the work out of housework—relieves the housewife of the monotony and drudgery of the ever-recurring daily routine—helps to solve the servant problem—and does all this in the most efficient and economical manner possible.

Unless you have an electric cleaner, washer and iron in your home, your housework is a much greater burden than necessary. Invest in these three labor-savers first of all and then add the rest as your particular household requirements demand.
